Parents and Guardians,

Welcome to Art for the 2023-2024 school year! I look forward to creating new artwork with your students and helping them increase their skills with a variety of media and techniques. This year we will continue using Google Classroom to complete and turn in assignments, art projects, and other classroom tasks. This allows students to access important information and classwork even if they are out of the building. Students will be given a code for their Google Classroom and will be trained how to log in to their account and turn in assignments through this platform.

Students will create a variety of new projects this year and actively participate in the display of their work. Students will continue to display completed work in the building throughout the year in the art hallway and at our Winter and Spring Art Shows. Additionally, The Deckerville Art Website (deckervilleart.weebly.com) will be maintained throughout the year and will display art made by each grade level. No personal information will be displayed on the website apart from a student's first name and last initial. If you do not wish for your student's work to be displayed on the website, please indicate that below the signature lines. There will be links to important handouts and documents on this website, as well as the class's weekly agenda.

As always, this year will be full of new obstacles and surprises. I am very pleased to work with students, parents and community members that are willing to evolve and work through these challenges as they arise. I appreciate your support at home with these terrific students, and I am excited to get started this year!

Thank you,

Jamie Roggenbuck
Art Teacher

I have read and understand the expectations of the Art Room. I also understand that failure to follow any of these expectations will lead to disciplinary action.
